

Royalton Dental Associates have your smile at heart

By SHERI STAFFORD
Contributing Writer

“Smiling is much more than just a facial expression,” says Dr. Daniel Florian, DMD, PA and owner of Royalton Dental Associates. “The simple act of smiling releases feel-good endorphins, improves circulation to the face, makes you feel good about yourself in general and can definitely increase self-confidence and improve self-image.”

Dr. Florian and Royalton Dental Associates have patients’ smiles at heart. They offer a vast range of family dental and cosmetic services that keep patients smiling.

In addition to regular dental checkups, they specialize in services including mini implants, which helps patients stabilize and retain loose dentures; Invisalign, clear and removable braces; and Lumineers, ultra-thin porcelain veneers.

Laser dentistry is used in treating patients on a daily basis. This state-of-the-art technology enhances dental treatment by lessening the use of anesthesia, stitches and bleeding.

Other services offered include Botox cosmetic and Dermal Fillers. Such treatments can be used as a muscle relaxer to reduce chronic facial pain and teeth grinding. More dentists are offering these procedures, because they know facial muscles.

Royalton Dental Associates provides dental care to children, adults and seniors. The American Dental Association recommends that children be seen by a dentist at approximately one year of age.

Dr. Florian states that tooth decay affects children in the U.S. more than any other chronic infectious disease, and untreated tooth decay causes pain and infections that can lead to further problems. He recommends brushing, flossing, and dental sealants that can protect young teeth from decay.

He advises adults and seniors to take care of their smiles by brushing, flossing and rinsing with a fluoride/antiseptic mouth rinse twice a day. Dental checkups and teeth cleaning every six months are crucial in maintaining dental health.

The practice takes pride in treating patients like family and strives for quality, integrity and honesty. Staff members are compassionate, caring and have the patients’ best interest as top priority.
